Instagram

Purpose

Instagram is our culture and employer brand channel. It showcases the human side of Vocus – our people, our workplace and what it is like to work here. The primary audience is prospective talent, especially professionals considering a telecom career.

Strategic role

Instagram builds emotional connection where LinkedIn builds professional credibility. This is where we show personality, celebrate our people and make Vocus feel like a place people want to work. Visual consistency matters – the grid is a first impression.

Audience

- Prospective employees
- Current employees
 - Industry peers who want the 'behind the scenes'
 - General public
 - Customers and government

Content pillars

Pillar	% of content
People stories	50
Behind the scenes	30
Culture & Benefits	20

People stories: #TakeFive series, employee profiles, team spotlights, career journeys, diversity stories

Behind the scenes: Day-in-the-life, office moments, project glimpses, events, #ThroughTheVocusLens

Culture & benefits: Benefits highlights, values in action, team celebrations, workplace initiatives

Content series

- #TakeFive – Quick 5-question videos with team members (flagship series)
- #ThroughTheVocusLens – Visual snapshots of life at Vocus
- #DidYouKnow – Bite-sized educational content about what we do
- People Stories – Longer-form profiles and career journeys

Tone & style

- Conversational, visual-first, energetic – but still professional
- Mobile-first: 80-120 words maximum per post
- 1-2 sentence paragraphs; let the visual do the heavy lifting
- Emojis used sparingly and only when contextually appropriate
- Hook → Key message → Call to action
- Australian English spelling

Grid consistency

Maintain a cohesive visual style across all posts. Use approved templates. When the grid looks scattered – different colours, inconsistent layouts, it undermines credibility. The grid is a first impression for anyone checking us out.

Posting cadence

3-4 posts per week. Stories can be more frequent. Best times: 12-1pm or 7-9pm AEST.

LinkedIn

Purpose

LinkedIn is our primary B2B channel for building brand authority, driving commercial awareness and positioning Vocus as Australia's trusted digital infrastructure leader. It is where customers, partners, investors and potential talent research us before making decisions.

Strategic role

LinkedIn is the engine for our external reputation. Every post should reinforce that Vocus is a serious infrastructure company with the scale, partnerships and capability to deliver. This is not a broadcast channel – it's a credibility-building platform.

Audience

- Enterprise and government customers (current and prospective)
- Partners, vendors and industry peers
- Investors and analysts
- Prospective talent at all levels
- Industry media, influencers and commentators

Content pillars

Pillar	% of content
Infrastructure Stories	30
Industry Voice	25
Customer Outcomes	20
People & Culture	20

Infrastructure stories: Network builds, partnerships (Starlink, Google), technical milestones, data centre connectivity

Industry voice: AI/infrastructure trends, thought leadership, executive perspectives, event participation

Customer outcomes: Case studies, wins, customer success stories that demonstrate real-world impact

People & culture: Team achievements, leadership profiles, EVP content (less frequent than Instagram)

Tone & style

- Professional, informative, strategic – but never corporate or stiff
- MUST be relevant for all audiences and if not, specify which audience you are talking to for each post
- Hook → Context → Why it matters → Call to action
- 150-250 words per post; short paragraphs for readability
- Never start with "At Vocus" or "We're excited to announce"
- Always explain why what we're doing matters – don't just inform, show value
- Australian English spelling (organised, centre)

Posting cadence

1-2 posts per week. Consistency is more important than volume. Best times: 8-10am or 12-2pm AEST, Tuesday-Thursday.

YouTube

Purpose

YouTube is our storytelling hub for deeper content. It's a search engine as much as a social platform – content posted today can drive views and credibility for years. This is where we go beyond the headline: customer stories, infrastructure projects, leadership perspectives, and content that doesn't fit in a 30-second scroll.

Strategic role

YouTube gives us space to tell stories properly. Unlike LinkedIn or Instagram, viewers come here to learn and go deep. A well-produced video builds credibility and trust in ways short-form content cannot. The channel should feel curated and intentional – quality over quantity.

Audience

- Customers researching Vocus solutions
 - Industry peers and technical audiences
 - Partners and prospective partners
- Prospective employees (especially for culture content)
 - Media and analysts looking for background

Content pillars

Pillar	% of content
Customer Stories	40
Infrastructure & Projects	35
People & Leadership	25

- Customer Stories: Case study videos, customer testimonials, solution deep-dives, use case demonstrations

Infrastructure & Projects: Network builds, data centre tours, technical explainers, behind-the-scenes of major projects

People & Leadership: Executive perspectives, team profiles, culture content, event highlights
- Content formats

 - Customer case studies (2-4 minutes) – let customers tell their story
 - Project showcases (2-3 minutes) – bring infrastructure to life visually
 - Leadership perspectives (2-5 minutes) – executive thought leadership
 - YouTube Shorts (30-60 seconds) – snackable highlights, repurposed content
 - Event recaps (1-3 minutes) – conference presence, speaking engagements
- Production standards

 - Professional production quality – this reflects our brand
 - Authentic storytelling – let real people tell real stories
 - Captions/transcripts mandatory for accessibility
 - Consistent thumbnail style for brand recognition
 - Strong opening hook – viewers decide in 5 seconds
- Channel consistency

A cohesive channel signals that we're investing in this. When thumbnails look inconsistent, video quality varies, or the channel feels abandoned, it undermines trust before anyone hits play. Maintain consistent branding across thumbnails, titles, and descriptions.
- Posting cadence

2-4 videos per month. Shorts can be more frequent. Focus on quality over volume – one strong video beats three mediocre ones.

REMEMBER: YouTube content lives forever. Invest in quality – it compounds over time.

The bottom line

Social media should tell the story of a business that's building Australia's digital future – not just a telco that posts content.

Three pillars. Clear platform roles. Storytelling that connects.
